
Performance collapses when biological connections are randomized

Calibration destroyed when gene-disease associations are randomized

Conclusion: Performance depends on biological structure, not memorization of graph topology